Career Profiling Assignment

PURPOSE OF PROFILING:

To recommend a suitable career to the subject using RSPM, DBDA and CPR.

INTRODUCTION:

The subject stated that according to her, intelligence meant "street smartness", quick-wittedness and situational awareness in a person . She stated that she was an academically average student and had average achievements. The subject stated that her definition of aptitude was pertaining to an individual's natural ability and skills. The subject reported that according to her aptitude meant something related to mental abilities, which also included verbal and non-verbal aspects. The subject was skilled at drawing and physical activities such as sports, yoga and swimming. Her hobbies included dancing, drawing and swimming but she was not interested in pursuing a career in them. The subject's main career preference was in the field of Defence since she wanted to give back to the nation and her father was in the same profession. She stated that she was interested in Hotel Management as a backup career option as she was interested in that field and also felt that she was quite capable at managing events.

CASE HISTORIES:

RSPM:

The subject mentioned that she believed in rote learning but also tried to apply other tricks and mnemonics while studying. She reported that she would prefer individual studies as opposed to group studies since she could understand better and stay more focused while studying individually. She stated that she had a relatively good retention power and was able to remember concepts for 2-3 days provided she studied in the morning while she was still fresh and focused. She would make a timetable/to-do list and a schedule for what needed to be studied on which day. The subject reported that if it was an interesting subject, she could pay attention for 45-60 minutes but if not, her attention span would not last longer than 15 minutes. The subject used synthesis as a part of decision making by putting ideas and information together to see an overall pattern of how things came together. She did not prefer focusing on the details aspect as much.
