The Department of Psychology of St. Mira's College hosted a 2-day National Conference: Innovations in Mental Health, from 3rd February to 4th February. The conference served as a venue to showcase the various contemporary therapeutic approaches used now.

The esteemed panel of faculty, consisting of Dr Jaya Rajagopalan, Dr Sharmin Palsetia and Swaruti Tamang, and guests, consisting of Deepti Kanade and Kashmira Parekh, were warmly welcomed by the student volunteers. The Light Ceremony was conducted with the panelists, followed by the felicitation of the guests. Dr Jaya Rajagopalan provided insights into the college's history and Raahi's efforts.

Swaarti Tamang discussed the conference's inception, emphasizing the importance of safe spaces. Kashmira Parekh praised the Psychology department for hosting the event and promoting mental health awareness. Deepti Kanade Modak delivered a keynote speech on neurodivergence in children and adolescents, introducing various therapies. Finally, Artsphere, Pune, presented captivating dance performances, each conveying diverse and thought-provoking themes through their expressive movements.

Mrs. Sandy Andrade, a presence-oriented therapist, kicked off the conference by delving into the essence of presence and mindfulness in psychotherapy. She emphasized the significance of connecting with one's body. The audience attentively participated in interactive activities, grasping the concepts effectively and experiencing their impact firsthand.

Zenia Yadav, Children's First, a narrative therapist for children and adolescents in Delhi, explained to the audience the risks and impacts of a single story and power hierarchies. She provided insights into narrative therapy, its elements, and the role of therapists in this approach.

Simran Chatha, from Bangalore , a pioneer in emotion-focused therapy in India, introduced the conference to the principles, history, and research behind this therapeutic approach. She explored the intricacies of emotions and related topics, sparking the audience's interest. The attendees eagerly participated in activities and sought clarification on this emerging form of therapy in India.

2nd DAY

During the event, three participants showcased their well-researched and creative research posters to an attentive and active audience. The competition judges, Dr Anjali Kedari and Dr Shipra Moghe observed closely. The room buzzed with activity as attendees actively engaged with the participants, posing questions and delving into discussions about the topics presented, to which the contestants answered confidently.

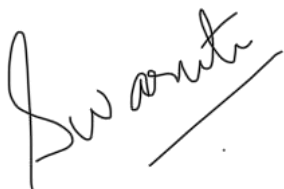

The Chakra session, led by Ms. Anubha Doshi and Ms. Karishma Harlalka from Artsphere, accommodated a substantial number of participants in two slots. Ms. Anubha provided an overview of Chakras, supplemented with a concise explanatory video, elucidating their significance and methods for harmonization.

There were engaging experiments that allowed tangible experiences of Chakra awareness, resulting in transformative moments. Calming music and an inclusive environment facilitated emotional introspection and sharing. Feedback highlighted feelings of tranquility, rejuvenation, and motivation, affirming the session's success in providing a secure space for all participants.

EXPRESSIVE ARTS

Radhika Maheshwary led two Expressive Arts Therapy sessions and through imaginative activities and collaborative artwork, attendees explored creativity and self-expression. Radhika's emphasis on disconnection from electronic devices fostered complete immersion, while inclusive practices reinforced respect for individual identities. Participants expressed deep gratitude for the transformative experience, highlighting the power of artistic exploration in psychology.

Swaruti Tamang gave an opening statement to commemorate the conference and the efforts that were given to bring the conference to fruition. The winner of the Poster Presentation competition was announced to be Anjali Pillai.
