To whom it may concern,

Namaste! We are very excited to collaborate with St. Mira's College for Girls in the implementation and evaluation of the project entitled "Prevent and Protect," led by myself and Aashna Banerjee from the Center for Peace and Conflict Studies, and Professor Mellisa Holtzman from the Department of Sociology at Ball State University. This project is a part of Aashna's doctoral dissertation to reduce the prevalence of gender-based violence and increase women empowerment programming in India.

It is my understanding, that the project will include the recruitment of female undergraduate students from the Bachelor of Arts program at your institution. All recruited students will participate in the Prevent and Protect comprehensive gender-based violence prevention program and they will complete surveys to determine the effectiveness of the program. The Prevent and Protect program is based on other programs that have led to significant increases in women's empowerment and the reduction in the prevalence of gender-based violence.

We are delighted to conduct the first comprehensive gender-based violence prevention program in India in partnership with St. Mira's College for Girls, Pune. We look forward to collaborating with you and your College on this innovative project to increase women's empowerment and to increase gender-based peace on India's university campuses.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

Yours,

Lawrence H. Gerstein, Ph.D.
