

BA SOCIOLOGY COURSE OUTCOMES

Sociology General I – AC12006

Semester I

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Describe basic sociological concepts
- Correlate sociological concepts to everyday life
- Acquire the knowledge of practice of sociological thinking
- Connect sociological thinking to the stuff of everyday life.
- Critically apply sociological concepts specifically to food and shopping.
- Articulate the position on socially relevant issues.
- Open up the sociology classroom to discussions that validate student expertise in on their own life world

Sociology General I – AC22006

Semester II

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Describe the characteristics of social institutions.
- Analyze the changes in social institutions in the Indian context.
- Critically evaluate the role of social institutions in shaping human social relationships/interactions.
- Learn seeing strange in the familiar (strangeness in the familiar things).
- Gain knowledge of the role of new digital media methods in social interactions.
- Articulate the position on socially relevant issues.

Sociology General 2 - A32111

Semester III

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Summarize the historical context of formation of Indian Society.
- Create awareness about contemporary critical issues in the Indian society.
- Explain contemporary challenges posed to the unity of Indian society.
- Develop interpersonal skills to enable the study of social issues, problems and challenges.
- Formulate ways of behaviour that enable social inclusions and national integration

- Construct a holistic understanding based on interdisciplinary knowledge of Gender, Ethnicities, class and caste.
- Adapt self understanding of the contemporary social issues and social reality of contemporary Indian society.

Sociology General 2 – A42111

Semester IV

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Outline the new social field of Ageing, its basic concepts and new challenges in Ageing.
- Develop an empathetic, holistic approach and sensibilities in behaviour towards ageing and with old people.
- Illustrate the social stratification of the society based on class, Gender and caste related to ageing.
- Make use of positive values like compassion, accountability and sensitivity to human issues.
- Analyze a critical, rational, logical, and scientific approach to the study of Ageing and its relation with individual, family, society and with religion.
- Relate the mutual link between individual and larger society specially with Ageing.
- Demonstrate sensibilities towards understanding Ageing and their effect on the individual and on society.

Sociology Special 1 - A32112

Semester III

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Develop knowledge of factors leading to the emergence of sociological theory.
- Build an understanding of the theoretical foundations of sociology.
- Foster critical viewpoints on classical theory in terms of race and gender.
- Develop logical and cohesive reasoning abilities
- Foster skills such argumentation and critical analysis
- Develop an understanding of a plural society.
- Demonstrate an ethical approach to understanding a diverse social world.

Sociology Special 1 – A42112

Semester IV

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Develop an understanding of the historical background and genealogies of Indian sociology.
- Identify major theoretical frameworks in Indian Sociology

- Develop an understanding of the contribution of critical insights in shaping Indian sociology.
- Foster a critical, scientific approach to the study of Indian society
- Develop logical and cohesive reasoning
- Demonstrate multicultural and plural sensitivities
- Demonstrate an ethical stand to engage in everyday world

Sociology Special 2 - A32113

Semester III

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Develop the knowledge of concepts related to popular culture and provide basic knowledge of methods used in the field of media.
- Know various interdisciplinary fields related to media and popular culture
- Develop an understanding of global forces in the field of popular culture/media
- Apply various non-conventional texts like films, art forms and social media
- Foster critical, reflexive and analytical thinking skills in media
- Develop multicultural and plural sensitivities towards diversity of cultures and perspectives on culture.
- Develop ethical and moral stand towards media and role of popular culture/media

Sociology Special 2 – A42113

Semester IV

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Build a strong and sound theoretical foundation in Sociology of gender.
- Inculcate critical thinking skills.
- Empathize and solve gender related issues in their lives.
- Identify women's rights as human rights
- Develop multicultural and plural sensitivities about gender issues.
- Adapt an ethical approach to understanding gender realities.
- Foster a more balanced approach to understanding Indian society
- Carry out gender related research

Sociology General 3 - A52211

Semester V

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Learn and develop a more balanced approach to understand Urban Society.
- Assess multicultural and plural sensitivities.
- Explore and demonstrate sensibilities towards understanding a plural society.
- Apply and develop interpersonal skills to enable the study of social issues, problems and challenges.

Sociology General 3 – A62211

Semester VI

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Learn the ways in which man makes and adapts to the social environment thereby rendering human existence the basic social nature.
- Learn reflexive and critical knowledge of the discipline.
- Apply and assert a critical, rational, logical, and scientific approach to the study of Information society
- Apply and internalize positive values like compassion, accountability and sensitivity to human issues related to Information society.

Sociology Special 3 - A52212

Semester V

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Learn the basic concepts of Research methodology
- Apply the knowledge to doing research
- Critique positivist paradigm and approach research critically
- Apply software to analyze and interpret qualitative data to articulate social issues.

Sociology Special 3 – A62212

Semester VI

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Explore the familiar path of cinema to connect to larger Sociological theoretical grounds and sociological concepts.
- Assess the world through a sociological lens that allows them to analyse and think about the world in sociological terms.
- Evaluate movies in terms of the extent to which they uncritically transmit stereotypes, misconceptions and ideologies regarding gender, race, ethnicity, poverty, social change, and social and political life.

- Apply concepts taken from social science in a way that will enhance their judgment and help them make better decisions in both their personal and public life.
- Identify women's rights as human rights

Sociology Special 4 - A52213

Semester V

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Explore the historical context shaping the discourse of development.
- Assess the changing concept of development.
- Apply sensitive understanding towards differentiated impact of development on different regions and sections.
- Demonstrate ethical issues in global development.

Sociology Special 4 – A62213

Semester VI

At the end of this course, the learner will be able to:

- Learn sociological understanding of modern sports.
- Apply analytical skills and theoretical perspectives linking sport to the social world.
- Demonstrate sensitivity towards barriers in the field of sports in terms of social stratification, power and inequality.
- Learn new sociological concerns and ethical issues in the field of sports.
